

We heard:

The construction in front of my business makes customers think we are closed. How will you inform the public that businesses are still open?

Our response:

Our Open for Business campaign includes placing banners in highly visual locations to attract and inform customers of the restaurants, entertainment and shopping options in each impacted business corridor.

